OAS Consortium of Universities

Organization of American States Department of Human Development

The Organization of American States (OAS) is the oldest regional organization in the world.

The OAS has been offering academic scholarships to the citizens of its member states since 1958. Besides academic scholarships, the OAS also offers professional development scholarships, interest free student loans and distance education through respectively its Academic and Professional Development Scholarship Programs, the Leo S. Rowe Pan American Fund and the Educational Portal of the Americas.

The Department of Human Development (DHD) of the OAS is responsible for administering these programs. In an effort to offer more scholarships to the citizens of the Americas and thus assist in the human resource development in OAS member states, the OAS seeks to partner with accredited and reputable academic institutions throughout the Americas.

Why join the OAS Consortium of Universities?

The idea behind the OAS Consortium is to be able to offer more scholarships to citizens of the Americas through cost-sharing arrangements with our partner universities.

In that regard, the universities may offer:

- ◆ Tuition reductions, tuition waivers and / or paid teaching or research assistantships to OAS scholarship recipients attending these universities, and
- ◆ On-line programs through the Educational Portal of the Americas either individually or in cooperation with the OAS.

The benefits of joining the OAS Consortium

By joining the Consortium:

- ◆ The OAS will assist in promoting your university in its member states to potential scholarship recipients that wish to study in an OAS member state;
- ◆ Your university's student body will be enriched with students from OAS member states;
- ◆ The university will be associated with the oldest regional organization in the world, and needless to say
- ◆ The university will assist in the development of human capacity in OAS member states.
